National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment
A particularly deep area of low pressure developing over the North Atlantic Ocean is expected to lie near Iceland this weekend. The associated frontal system will move across the UK during Friday and Saturday, bringing with it another spell of wet weather, accompanied by generally very windy conditions. The heaviest and most persistent rain is expected over higher ground on the western side of England and Wales. Here as much as 60 to 80 mm rain may fall over parts of northwest England and Wales. Over southwest England accumulations of 20 to 30 mm are possible.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 18:00 on Fri, 28th Dec 2012 until 09:00 on Sat, 29th Dec 2012

A spell of wet and very windy weather will affect the whole of the UK during Friday and Saturday. Western regions can then expect a period of persistent, heavy rain over high ground and the public should be aware of possible disruption due to localised flooding.
